the setting

Earlham...a campus of 120 acres, set in the midst of rolling grass, lovely trees, and sweet-scented flowers...a place where seasons come and go. In autumn, Earlham becomes a paradise of beautiful colors... the leaves on the trees turn golden and crimson orange, dotted with reddish brown. In winter, glistening white fields of snow cover the entire campus, and everything is enveloped in silence and softness. With the first budding signs of spring, Earlham bursts out with life again, and everywhere trees and flowers come into bloom...however, Earlham is not just a place--rather, it is a community where we come together to learn and share, to seek knowledge, wisdom and the truth, and where we strive to maintain a value-centered education...

Traditions have long been a part of the Earlham community, and we encounter and relive the past in them. Our participation becomes not a mere ritual performance, but a coming-together of the whole community. One of our most prominent and well-preserved traditions is Old English May Day — a grandiose celebration taking place every four years. With the sounding of the trumpet at one o'clock begins the long procession of people from all walks of Old English life—ladies of the court, knights, madrigal singers, stilt walkers, chimney sweeps, milkmaids, villagers, blacksmiths, fish mongers, glassblowers, beggars, shepherds, Maypole dancers, and many more...and everyone joins in for an afternoon of fun and entertainment...

Our learning goes beyond textbooks, papers, and lectures, as we learn to respect the special interests of everyone outside the classroom in an attempt to maintain our liberal arts education. We especially value the art--music, dance, theater and poetry. Through our own fellow students and the many guests who come to Earlham to share their art with us, we broaden our own selves as well as our perspectives in life...

the sports

We value physical exercise, team spirit, and the moving person, as we develop skills in the sports. As the knights in our Old English tradition have gallantly faced their foes, so our teams confront their opponents, coming together as teams. We rejoice in our victories, and are not discouraged by our defeats. We realize that sports strengthen our minds and spirits, and we become more rounded persons...

The season was one in which many young players had to accept leadership responsibilities. With only five seniors and seven juniors, it was a very young team. This year would definitely be called a rebuilding one and many players got valuable experience which will pay off in years to come.

This year's team began with strong, good team spirit and good ball control. The offense had difficulties in scoring consistently however, and the opposing teams were able to penetrate a tiring defense. Although spirit remained high, and good interest on the part of the fans continued, the team could not win consistently and ended the season with a mediocre record. However, there were many bright spots, some excellent new talent, and some very solid performances which gave the team confidence and spirit for next year.

women's basketball

The number of participants in women's basketball was down this year due to several of last year's players being away on off-campus programs. The players who came out were enthusiastic, but inexperienced, several of them playing competitively for the first time. With the experience gained this year, and several of last year's players returning, the team should be much stronger next year.

the year

As we begin our Earlham experience as freshmen, and as we leave as graduating seniors, we notice the many changes that take place at Earlham through the years. Our own perspectives change as we encounter the many issues that involve us as a community. We develop a more strengthened self through living, learning, and working with others in seeking a better and more satisfying alternative. We face the changes in college policies, task force issues on college life, faculty contracts, and gas shortages, and yet we also find ourselves involved in various other activities that characterize our interests...

pre-term programs

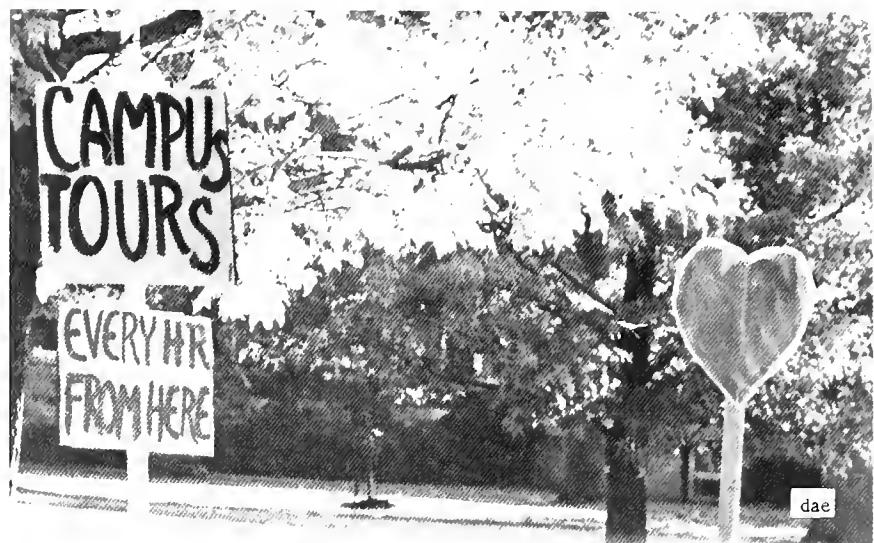

... Wilderness can be appreciated only by contrast, and solitude understood only when we have been without it.

... When one finally arrives at the point where schedules are forgotten, and becomes immersed in ancient rhythms, one begins to live.

... Life in the wilderness can be a continual contemplation and communion with God and Spirit of those values echoing within us all, values born of timelessness, mystery, the great silences, and an ancient way of life.

... We dream of times when there was room to breathe, work to challenge our strength, and a chance for a man to carve out his destiny.

We are a community of diverse backgrounds — some of us coming from Africa, Asia, Europe, Central and South America, and from all corners of the U.S. This contributes to our individual interests, goals, and values, but coming together collectively, we emphasize a mutual caring and understanding, and a shared search for wisdom and the truth. We are aware of our responsibility to one another, and we respect and protect it as we move together toward a richer and deeper understanding and fulfillment of our humanity...

EARLHAM COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

Books, like friends, should be few and well chosen. Like friends, too, we should return to them again and again--for, like true friends, they will never fail us--never cease to instruct--never cloy. Next to acquiring good friends, the best acquisition is that of good books.
